

SS 200 Psychology and Women Course Learning Objectives

 Title and course description to be updated soon*

CLO 1: Identify major concepts and theories of the psychology of gender.

CLO 2: Evaluate societal and sociocultural issues related to perceptions of gender.

CLO 3: Articulate the ways in which gender impacts individuals' attitudes and behaviors

CLO 4: Describe how individual differences in biology, culture, and experience are essential considerations in understanding gender issues.

PREREQUISITE or COREQUISITE

ENG 101 This course examines the psychological theories specifically related to women, with an emphasis on biological, environmental and sociocultural perspectives. Special attention is given to the issues and concerns of women throughout various stages of life.